

Addressing a Participant's Crisis

As a Small Group Leader, you are in a unique position. Because you will be ministering to individuals, they may confide in you with personal, family, health, or mental issues. Although you are not expected to be a counselor, we want to make sure you are aware of the resources available to avoid responding in ways that are counterproductive in the situation.

Please note, you should always alert your Coach when you feel someone is experiencing a crisis and in need of assistance.

Below are a few of the resources available when someone is experiencing a crisis.
